What makes this project special?

This was a large fencing contract with over 600 metres of fencing required for new prestige, executive homes. Consistently high quality materials were essential as was the ability to supply on time, as timescales were tight.

About the installation:

Collins Design & Build were looking for a high quality product with a long lifespan for their new estate in Canon Pyon which is predominantly high quality executive homes. Smart, upmarket, fencing was requested to compliment their new homes. The fences are all double sided so that both neighbours get the best side of the fence. To achieve this finish Bradbury Contracts installed standard panels and then fixed on individual feather edge boards to the back of fence. As Sam Bradbury says..."Quality and finish was the brief given – as a contractor I could have gone out for the cheapest material costs however I believe in offering above and beyond so opted for a quality product from Walford rather than a budget busting poor quality product from other suppliers."
